CM 200 is a follow on from CM100 that presented the fundamental management principles of condominium management. In CM200 we delve more into the practical principles involved in managing a condominium management and is directed towards anyone involved in said management. The course will be a facilitated discussion on practical steps to use concerning governance, administration, people, financial, and property. Lastly, we'll dig a little deeper into insurance requirements. Whether you're new to the game or an old hand this seminar is an excellent opportunity to develop or refresh knowledge and skills to more effectively ensure your Condominium Corporation is managed as well as it can be. Come join us and get to know others who face the same issues that you do and what can be done about what Tony Hall (Podium Properties) calls the three P problems; people, pets and parking. You are not alone.

Please Register at least seven days in advance to allow for printing of the manuals and other arrangements.
